Dear Friend,

For over 80 years, The High School of Art & Design has provided award-winning art programs and high quality academics for youth from across all five boroughs. Our students are able to choose majors in Illustration, Graphic Design, Cartooning, Animation, Fashion Design, Architecture, Film/Video, and Photography while pursuing a Regents diploma, and then go to college or careers in the field. Alumni include singer and artist Tony Bennett, designers Calvin Klein and Marc Jacobs, Pulitzer Prize winning author and cartoonist Art Spiegelman, filmmaker Amy Heckerling, and photographer Steven Meisel.

As a New York City public school, Art & Design serves many students who qualify for free lunch and live in underserved communities. In addition to the typical expenses any student incurs, Art & Design students also need professional grade art supplies and materials, as well as opportunities for college exploration and career development that are unique in comparison to other schools. Keeping technology accessible and current has provided new challenges for our community. Field trips aligned to specific majors help expand our students' points of reference, and provide direct access to the vast array of cultural and career oriented destinations New York City has to offer. The PTA helps fund these critical needs and more for the students and the school.

This year, we are planning on holding our Spring Auction Online, May 6–15.

How can you help? We hope that you can donate an item, gift certificates/cards, or a unique experience for our online auction this year. Please submit the completed donor form, to ensure proper recognition on our auction website, along with your tax-deductible donation no later than April 30th.

Any donation you make is tax deductible as The Art and Design High School PTA is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. We will also thank you on our social media channels, website, and newsletter, which reaches over 1500 families.

Your support will go a long way to help cultivate the talent and dreams of our students. Thank you so much for your consideration.

Best,

The 2021-2022 PTA Auction Committee
